More stories at WordBlanks.com

Half of Wednesday ("___ to VERB" phrases)

1. Verb - Base Form _____
2. Verb - Base Form _____
3. Verb - Base Form _____
4. Verb - Base Form _____
5. Verb - Base Form _____
6. Verb - Base Form _____
7. Verb - Base Form _____
8. Verb - Base Form _____
9. Verb - Base Form _____
10. Verb - Base Form _____
11. Verb - Base Form _____
12. Verb - Base Form _____
13. Verb - Base Form _____
14. Verb - Base Form _____

Half of Wednesday ("___ to VERB" phrases)

If you cut the week in half, you get half of Wednesday.

What can you do with half a day?

Maybe you can start to _____Verb - Base Form_____ a book, or start to _____Verb - Base Form_____ a bunch of bugs and begin to grow them.

But maybe you'll never finish all of this.

You can begin to _____Verb - Base Form_____ for a race or start to _____Verb - Base Form_____ a cake for Mom, who will love you more for trying to _____Verb - Base Form_____ a smile on everyone's face.

She will maybe, also, laugh more,

as you try to _____Verb - Base Form_____ your cake

so that it can start to _____Verb - Base Form_____ the entire world and all the bugs you started to collect.

But with half of the week, you won't finish.

Don't stop now--keep going:

Know that you won't have to _____Verb - Base Form_____ up!

When you wake up, start to _____Verb - Base Form_____ all the windows, begin to _____Verb - Base Form_____ all the coins in the house, try to _____Verb - Base Form_____ all the food in the fridge.

So, even if you won't finish everything until the second half of Wednesday, please remember to _____Verb - Base Form_____ "Hello!"

to everyone you will start to _____Verb - Base Form_____.

Oh, and don't forget to _____Verb - Base Form_____,

"See you later!" too.

©2026 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.