How we Met, by Michael Rowden

Michael remembers a _____Adjective_____ blonde walking down the stairs at a mutual friend's Christmas party and absolutely lighting up the room. He could not take his eyes off of her and knew he had to talk to her and get her _____Noun_____. This would be no easy task since he was wearing a _____Adjective_____ silk tie with a giant cartoon Santa face on the front of it. He sure looked _____Adjective_____. They hit it off right away though and talked for hours.That night they talked about their families, values, interests, and hopes for the _____Noun_____. Pretty intense stuff for just meeting but it felt _____Adjective_____ the entire time. Michael left the party with his friends but could not stop thinking about _____Noun_____. Due to an unfortunate logistical situation he found himself _____Verb - Present Tense_____ in the trunk of a minivan cab, from which he shamelessly and only half-jokingly declared to his friends "I think I'm in _____Noun_____!". His instincts were correct. The two of them continued to _____Noun_____ each other the rest of the night. After the party Michael went to his friend Chris's apartment to play video games. His friend Chris yelled at him because he kept _____Verb - Present Tense_____ and making their team _____Verb_____ in Call of Duty due to his frequent texting breaks right in the middle of the game. Little did Michael and Elizabeth know, that fateful night would lead to a _____Noun_____ together.
