Please Verb - Base Form Leon from school today. I am afraid to tell you he is very sick. He has caught a serious case of the chicken pox. We were eating dinner last night when we realized he was getting sick. At first, he was scratching, and then he could not stop.

He might be back tomorrow, but I will not know until the morning. I will call you when I am sure. We may need the school to send his work home.

It must be contagious because his sister and I both have caught this nasty sickness too! We were awake all night scratching!
