The Engagement

On Friday, November 16th, Danny and Becca were on a trip to Southern California for his grandmother's birthday. Because they had a free _____Noun_____, they decided to spend it at "The Happiest Place on earth"--_____Location_____. Little did Becca know that Danny had _____Verb - Base Form_____ an elaborate scheme to propose that very day. During their day at the Magic Kingdom, they experienced such favorites as _____Noun_____ and they met beloved characters such as _____Full Name of a Person_____. All of the fun led to memories that they both would _____Verb - Base Form_____ forever, but there was a purpose to all of it. Danny was a man on a _____Noun_____ that day. After spending half of the day in _____Location_____, he, ever so subtly, suggested they _____Verb - Base Form_____ on over to California Adventure. In fact, earlier on the trip, Danny had researched the time the sun would _____Verb - Base Form_____ that evening, and he knew that would be his chance to _____Verb - Base Form_____ the question. Danny had his timing down perfectly. There was ample time to not only _____Verb - Base Form_____ the shows and _____Verb - Base Form_____ the rides but also, little by little, they edged closer to the _____Location_____ --the place where Danny was going to ask the question that would change their lives.

At sunset, they arrived at the ride, but the line stretched all the way to _____Location_____! Danny was already more _____Emotion_____ than he had ever been; the extra wait only added to his anxiety. In fact, Danny was so _____Emotion_____ that he didn't _____Verb - Base Form_____ to Becca during the whole wait! (Well, according to her.) This, of course, was not true. Once on the ride, he waited until the wheel had reached the top, and they overlooked _____Location_____ together admiring the beautiful _____Noun_____ that decorated the park. There he reached into his backpack and pulled out the _____Noun_____. He then lowered himself onto one _____Noun_____ and asked, "Becca, will you marry me?" As you can probably guess, she said yes, and the rest, as they say, is history.
