Moving Out

I had just turned _____Age_____ and was finally able to move out. I had a steady job as a(n) _____Occupation_____ and had saved _____Large Number_____ dollars. I'd decided to move to _____State_____, where my _____Relative_____ _____First Name of a Person_____ lived. We'd been very close ever since the _____Noun_____ incident five years ago. My mom was very _____Emotion_____ when I left but my dad just _____Verb - Past Tense_____ me on the _____Body Part_____. I _____Verb - Past Tense_____ and got in my car and drove away. When I arrived at my new apartment it smelled like _____Noun - Plural_____. Instead of complaining I ignored it and walked _____Adverb_____ up to my room. I began unpacking and came across a box marked _____Room_____. Our old house and my new apartment didn't have that room so I was confused why I'd written that. I opened up the box and inside was _____Number_____ _____Noun - Plural_____ and they were alive! I screamed as they attacked me and I fell to the floor, hitting my _____Body Part_____ and my head. When I woke up I was back home with my parents, who looked much older. They told me I was in a coma for _____Number_____ years, and both of my _____Relative - Plural_____ had died. I was also paralyzed from the _____Body Part_____ down and would never _____Verb - Base Form_____ again. But at least I was back home, where I would be _____Verb - Past Tense_____ and _____Verb - Past Tense_____ by those I love.
