BI Formulary Disclaimer

The MLR team is very [Adjective] about using the correct disclaimer for formulary [Noun].

Here's how it should read: Source: [Part of Body OF THE BODY] Formulary, health plan or NOUN listed above, and/or data on file, [Full Name of a Person OF PERSON IN ROOM], Inc. as of [Date in history in History].

Placement on [Noun] does not establish clinical comparability of [Noun], including safety and [Noun], and is not a guarantee of full or [Adjective] coverage and/or payment. Contact health plan, state, or [NAME OF PERSON AT BI] for most ADJECTIVE information, as it may change without [NOUN].

If piece is [ADJECTIVE] and mentions other trademark(s) not owned by [person in room], please [VERB] a line after standard source and disclaimer language block above and [VERB] the following: Boehringer Ingelheim Pharmaceuticals, Inc. either owns or uses the [PLURAL NOUN] Tradjenta and Jentadueto under license. Other referenced trademarks are VERB (PAST TENSE) by third parties.

Follow these MLR rules and you will always have a [ADJECTIVE] AND [ADJECTIVE] approval process for your formulary [PLURAL NOUN].
