More stories at WordBlanks.com

The Wedding Day

1. Onomotopea _____

The Wedding Day

_____Onomotopea_____! Off went Logan's alarm clock - he yawned and squinted at the bright screen. 11:00am. "I've still got 2 hours before I need to head out," he thought, "plenty of time," and hit the snooze button again. His groomsmen started to shuffle around and get ready, and finally Logan got up. "It's your wedding day" said Ron (Logan's best man) "how do you feel?" "Tired," Logan said, grabbing his suit out of the hotel room closet, "and excited too." His groomsmen chuckled. It took them all just a few minutes to put on their grey suits and brush their hair, and they were ready to go.

Meanwhile, at the bridesmaids' hotel, the ladies had been awake since 7:00am. Jess hardly got a wink of sleep, she was so nervous and excited. A year of planning, stressing and freaking out, all leading up to this one day. She hoped that everything would go as planned. The morning went by quickly and slowly at the same time. "Can I just fast forward to 2:30?" Jess kept thinking to herself. She had her hair and makeup done, and got into her dress. Her mom and sister and all her bridesmaids were there to support her. Finally it was time to go to the garden!

©2026 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.