Paul the racist

There once lived an _____ Adjective _____ Adjective white man named Paul, he didn't like the blacks ever since he was born. Not only did he not like them, he was a devout member of the EDL and would often spend his spare time _____ Verb Present ends in ING black people at the stake in his back _____ Location. Every black person he saw, he would crack out his _____ Noun and _____ Adverb _____ Verb Base Form it upon them while screaming "YOU ARE A _____ Adjective". Paul lived in Liverpool and supported Everton. On occasion he would make conversation with a black man, only to find out where he lived so he can petrol bomb their house. Was there a reason he hated black people, no. He just thought that they were better off used as _____ Noun _____ Plural than humans. The racist _____ Adjective _____ Adjective would snort at black people and call them names like _____ Adjective, _____ Adjective and _____ Adjective. He went on holiday to _____ Location, and while sat on the motorway, a young black child put his _____ Part of Body through the window and asked for some noun. What did Paul do, _____ Verb Base Form at him and wind the window up on his _____ Part of Body.
