Grocery Shopping

Mr. _____ Name and his daughter _____ Name walked into a supermarket, called _____ Noun. It was a _____ Adjective day, so there were many _____ Noun Plural in the supermarket. They were planning to cook a _____ Noun for their grandpa on his birthday. The first thing they needed for the _____ Repeat Last Noun was _____ Noun, so they walked to aisle # _____ Number. Anna grabbed _____ Number bags of _____ Repeat Last Noun from the shelf and put them into the basket. To the right, she saw a man wearing a _____ Adjective, _____ Adjective coat put a hand into his _____ Adjective pocket, and then shot her a _____ Adjective glance. It looked like he might have put something into his pocket... Anna suspected the man was stealing, but she hadn't seen enough to be sure. She didn't want to accuse him of stealing if he hadn't actually done anything wrong, so she kept her mouth shut. They continued on their way down the aisle, stopping to grab a bag of _____ Food chips, some _____ Food, and a can of _____ Number. The only other thing they needed was baking soda, but they couldn't find any on the shelf, so Anna asked one of the employees. He said, "The baking soda is in the _____ Food section, aisle _____ Number."

"Thanks," Anna responded. They walked _____ aisle _____, and when they got there, they saw the same man again. He was stuffing his coat with bags of _____ Food!

Anna was _____ Emotion ending with ED. Didn't anybody else see what he was doing? Just then, they heard the store alarm go off. Two _____ Adjective employees handcuffed the man in the coat.

He began to _____ Verb Base Form and _____ Verb Base Form, saying, "Get your _____ Adjective hands off me! I didn't do anything!"
