Christmas 2011

2011 started off with a January through March wasof sports, school, and work.
Clare startedverb ending in ingclub (travel) volleyball and middle school volleyball. Daniel put his all into swimming We discoveredtournaments are probably the worst sports events for Noun imagine several (up to 40) volleyball with with girls and whistles (oh. the whistles!) We also had the opportunity to head to thefor some snowboarding lessons - both kids were VERYatjectiveup after that day! Tom wasas ever withnoun putting in almost 300 hours in March. Dianesubstituting occasionally at the local high schools.
April saw the start of the Springseason for Daniel and the end ofvolleyball - or so we thought. Her team pulled a UConn and won their regional which meant they got an automatic bid to the nationalin June in Atlanta. The summer was very busy for us all - NYC, 3 Noun camps, and Confirmation Noun for Clare, VT swim camp for Daniel, and Atlanta for the Junior National Noun Tournament for Clare, Tom and Diane. It's probably Adverb that we don't tell you the result of Nationals. Ugh! Most of the 14 year old teams at the tournament werethan all the high school teams in our area. The best part of the summer was awe took in the southern Caribbean. We flew to Puerto Rico and sailed to Barbados, Antigua, St. Lucia, St. Maarten, and St. Croix. We fell inwith St. Maarten and Puerto Rico. In August, Clare made the JV volleyball team at her high school and Daniel started hisyear with the same travel soccer team (it's hard to believe he's beer playingfor 8 years!) Late in the month, Clare started high school (Oh my!) and Daniel started 7th grade.

They continue to do veryin school. After soccer ended in November, Daniel started putting a lo of time in at the(Diane LOVES driving him at 5 a.m. once a week for morning practice!) He has cut time off of all his events and hopes to reach Age Groups in March. Clare will be starting practice for another travelteam in January. Diane has been working hard to start her travel She was able to travel to St. Lucia and Antigua this Fall to visit 5 Sandals resorts. She loves every minute of her new
