Mermaid attack (improved)

Journal Entry 1

I am _____Male name_____, Repeat Last Male name _____last name_____.

It's the year _____Year_____, and our _____Noun_____ has just sunk. Only three of my crew members remain. The rest have been _____past tense verb_____, or are _____Verb - Past Tense_____ at _____puddle ocean lake ect_____. Those who were Repeat Last past tense verb _____ in the horrible wreck were _____Verb - Past Tense_____ deep under the _____Adjective_____ _____Noun_____ by none other than mermaids, the most _____Adjective_____ yet _____Adjective_____ creatures in the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect _____. I fear that the same fate awaits the four of us I can hear the _____Adjective_____ and _____Adjective_____ voice of the sirens calling to us from the fog, in words we cannot _____Verb - Base Form_____. I fear my first mate, _____Another male name_____, will go to the source of the voice if I am to take my _____plural body part_____ off 'im. He has been in a trance-like state since the _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ creatures started their _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ Even I have started feeling as if I'm under a slight trance My other two crew members, _____Yet another male name_____ and _____Yeeeeeeet another male name_____, remain unaffected by the _____ _____Adjective_____ voices It must have something to do with their ages as Repeat Last Yet another male name is only _____ _____Number_____ years old, while Repeat Last Yeeeeeeet another male name is just _____similar number_____ Me and Repeat Last Another male name _____ on the other _____Part of Body_____, are over _____Number_____ _____seconds minutes years centuries ect_____ older than those two.

Journal Entry 2

It has been about _____Number_____ hours since I had last written my account of our _____Adjective_____ situation events have taken place in the time in which I have not written. Repeat Last Another male name is now gone. He Verb - Past Tense from our Adjective noun, straight into the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect .

Several

Despite our best attempts at Verb - Present ends in ING him, he is gone, either Repeat Last Verb - Past Tense , or worse, Repeat Last past tense verb . We assume the latter. The last we saw of him, he was Verb - Present ends in ING deeper and deeper into the Adjective Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect .

Journal Entry 3

Yet another Noun has Verb - Past Tense us. Repeat Last Yet another male name has been Verb -

Past Tense straight into the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect , grabbed from the Repeat Last noun by his Part of Body. Before, we had assumed that the mermaids would Verb - Base Form us alone as long as we stay out of the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect , but we were wrong. This may well be my last entry, as the night is Adverb approaching. Neither me, nor Repeat Last Yeeeeeeet another male name can remain awake for much longer.

Journal entry 4

Obviously I have survived the night, as there is no way I would be able to write otherwise . Repeat Last Yeeeeeeet another male name is missing. Our Repeat Last noun was flipped over, and the Adjective mermaids

Verb - Past Tense the Adjective young lad under However, I did not witness them base form of first past tense verb him, leading me to Verb - Base Form Adverb to the hope that he is dead or alive, and will Verb - Base Form.

Journal Entry 5

have found Repeat Last Yeeeeeeet another male name floating in the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect , _____alive or dead_____ !

But just barely. I dragged him through the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect , to a nearby _____Noun_____. On the Repeat Last Noun_____, I planned to start a signal _____Noun_____, to alert _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ _____Noun - Plural_____ of our presence. This led to a _____Adjective_____ rescue, and now we have been _____Verb - Past Tense_____ home. All I wish to say now, is that I shalt _____Verb - Base Form_____ far from the _____Adjective_____ and _____Adjective_____ Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect_____ from now on.
