Granny's 100th Birthday Party

Next _____Month_____is going to be Granny's 100th birthday. I think we should throw her a _____Animal_____ themed party. She always loved those _____Adjective_____creatures.

We should make a _____Noun_____shaped cake and _____Noun_____shaped pinata. We should probably invite her _____Name of occupation_____just in case--- just in case things get a little too _____Emotion_____.

I called _____Female relative_____last night. She said she can't come because _____Name_____is having another dramatic short shorty reading. This one is called _____Title_____.

But _____Male relative_____will be there and he said he might bring _____Name_____ my favorite _____Animal_____. But I'm a little _____Emotion_____because he also said he's thinking about getting her a _____Animal_____. I said, " what are you thinking, she isn't _____Number_____.";

Do you think you could get _____Name_____to come and do an interpretive dance to _____Song title_____? Last year, after _____Number_____drinks, it took _____Number_____of people to pull him off the dance floor. Everyone thought it was _____Name of celebrity_____on the dance floor!

That might be too much for Granny. It hasn't been that long since she had her bout of _____Illness_____. We should have more age appropriate games ... maybe _____Name of game_____? Or _____Name of game_____?

I hope the weather is nice. Last year it was _____Hot or cold_____outside and _____Male relative_____said he was going to _____Verb_____if he didn't go inside. And I don't want him inside again! It took me _____Number_____of days to clear up after he _____Past tense verb_____in the living room.

Maybe we should just take Granny to the _____Name of event_____instead.
