The little mermaid

Ariel (voice of) is a headstrong sixteen-year-old Noun whose father just so happens to be King Triton, the ruler of the Noun; people. Ariel is fascinated with the Location above the Noun surface and is curious about the many Plural noun she's collected from Plural noun. She longs to be a Noun and along with friends Flounder and Scuttle, a seagull, she occasionally pops up to the surface for a quick look around. Triton is Adjective over this, for he thinks that humans are barbarians and dangerous to the Mer people. So he assigns the court composer, Sebastian the Noun to watch over her.

He's horrified to find that Ariel has fallen in love with Prince Eric, a human she saved from a shipwreck. Her attraction to the above water world continually grows, while Prince Eric longs for the Adjective woman with the beautiful singing voice who Verb him. Despondent and knowing that her father will try to stop her by any means, Ariel accepts an interesting, but very dangerous Noun from Ursula, an underwater witch. Ursula Verb Ariel into a human in exchange for her beautiful Noun and for Ariel's Noun should she not be able to get the prince to kiss her within three days. Thus Ariel and her Noun must race against Noun to make that kiss happen, while Ursula does what she can to Verb it.
