The Love Couple

In this town in California called Sacramento, there were these two people. These two people were in love. They were planning on having a kid. This couple lived in the middle of nowhere. They had a Noun though. They're names are First name and First name. Since they have a car, they tend to go out into the city to buy groceries, or to just party in the club. After a few months, the couple had a newborn baby boy. His name was First name. So, the couple dropped First name at their mother's house, just for the night. They supplied their mother, First name with plenty of milk, so First name can eat. The reason they dropped First name off at their Mom's house was because they wanted to have a night by themselves. You know, a Adjective night. They haven't planned where they want to go or what they want to do, or if they just want to stay home for the night. Well, that night, they decided to break into someone else's Type of building. They had another baby in that place. They left that baby in that place. And Past tense verb off. They Verb ending in ed their first baby, and now their second one. I don't know how anyone could ever do that. It's wrong. And no one ever Past tense verb them again.
