The Lucky Dragon

The fire crackers went boom, _____ Adverb _____ Adverb as Dragon _____ Verb _____ around the corner. It was a cool, _____ Adjective _____ night in China Town, but tonight was special. The time was _____ Number _____ and he was excited for the Chinese New Year parade. Dragon had waited _____ Number _____ long years for it to be his turn to be honored by all the other animals. He had a _____ Adjective _____ person inside his head who was operating his eyes and mouth as he was led through the _____ Adjective _____ crowd. He also had several _____ Noun _____ dancers _____ Verb ending in ing _____ his segmented body made of cloth as they went up and down, side to side, and back and forth across the gray pavement.

The best was yet to come he thought. Since my year only comes once every _____ Number _____ years maybe someone will finally throw an _____ Noun _____ inside my mouth when I dip down into the crowd of people, instead of boring old lettuce leaves and red envelopes! Well, secretly he did enjoy catching the red envelopes, called Lei See. His _____ First name _____ and _____ First name _____ always put them in the bank so he would have enough money of his own someday to buy a _____ Noun _____ along the Great Wall of China. Finally, he had reached the end of the parade, but he could hardly see because of the fire cracker smoke. When the air cleared he _____ Past tense verb _____ his good fortune. Someone had left him his very own _____ Noun _____ with a little note that read, Gung Hay Fat Choy!
