true fairy tale

once upon a time, there was a           Noun1           named Audriella. She had           Adjective           hair, and           Color           eyes. She was a strong           Noun1           and was only           Age           years old. Her boy friend           Male1           was her long time           Relation           and they wanted to marry, but her mother           Femalename1           wanted her to marry           Malename2          .           Malename2           was a           Adjective           man, who believed any class below them were           Adjective          . Audriella did not like           Malename2           and thought he was           Adjective          . He kidnapped audriella one day after her           Speacialday          .

while she was           Verb ending in ing           he           Verb ending in ed           her and off they went to his dungeon.           Malename2           forced her to do unspeakable things consisting of being           Person tittle1                     Persontitle2          .

. And she was very,           Emotion           about it. she was at his           Type of midevil place           for           Number of years          .

finally after           Same number of years                     Male1           came to resue her. she was           Emotion          . she wanted to leave, but didnt at the same time. for           Malename2           cast a spell on her makeing her feel different than she normally was.           Male1           got her out of the arms of           Malename2           andthey rode away. finally the spell broke and she kissed           Male1           for saveing her life. and they lived           Adverb           ever after.
