I want you to realize something. How often do you hear me use the words I love you besides to you and talking about food. The Noun is hardly ever. Those words rarely roll off my tongue. So I want you to realize every time I saw those three little words to you there is so much meaning behind them and truth. No other person has ever made me feel the way you do. You make the hard times easier. And it takes a truly special person to deal with me. I know I may not be as Adjective as you would like but please Pronoun before you I hardly showed physical affection. I have given you more of me than anyone else has ever had. You mean so much to me.
