

Raising the dead

1. First Name _____
2. Color _____
3. Article Of Clothing _____
4. Adjective _____
5. Animal Plural _____
6. Animal Sound Ending In Ing _____
7. Name Of Store _____
8. Beverage _____
9. Verb _____
10. Verb _____
11. Past Tense Verb _____
12. Sense _____
13. Number _____
14. Language _____
15. Plural Noun _____
16. Plural Noun _____
17. Verb Ending In Ing _____
18. Verb _____
19. Verb _____

Raising the dead

was watching some gravediggers at work. I heard shovels and saw dirt flying out of a hole. He/She was dressed in a _____ Color _____ Article of clothing _____. The night was _____ Adjective _____. it was warm and humid, and _____ Animal plural _____ were _____ Animal sound ending in ing _____. A large _____ Name of store _____ bag sat next to his/her feet.

He/She reached into his _____ name of store _____ bag and pulled out a twelve-pack of _____ Beverage _____. He popped open a can. Instead of drinking it, he poured it into a grave.

"Let the dead _____ Verb _____ again,"; he murmured. "Let them rise and take this offering. Let them _____ Verb _____;

He dropped the rest of the _____ beverage _____ into the grave and pulled out a _____ color _____ paper bag decorated with cartoons. I hadn't seen one in years, but I recognized it - A _____ restaurant _____ Happy Meal.

He turned it upside down and shook the _____ food _____ and _____ food _____ into the grave.

"In my day we used animal blood,"; a ghost _____ Past tense verb _____. "But it's perfectly good enough. They can't _____ Sense _____ the difference.";

"Be quiet!!"; _____ first name _____ ordered the ghost. He emptied another _____ Number _____ of soda and three more Happy Meals into the grave, then began chanting in Ancient _____ Language _____. I caught only some of the words - a lot about _____ Plural noun _____ and _____ Plural noun _____ and _____ Verb ending in ing _____ from the grave. Real _____ Verb _____ stuff.

The grave started to _____ Verb. Frothy brown liquid rose to the top like the whole thing was filling with soda

. The fog thickened. The frogs stopped croaking. Dozens of figures began to appear out of the gravestones:

bluish, vaguely human shapes. Nico had summoned the dead with Coke and cheeseburgers.