Cub scouting

There once was a _____ Adjective _____ boy who wanted to do more than sports. He asked his mom and dad what he could do. They said he should try _____ Adjective _____. He didn't want to. They said he should try a new sport. He said no thank you. They looked and looked for a new activity for the boy to try.

One day a boy came home from school in his backpack. There was going to be a cub scout joining night that week at the town community center. The dad remembered being a cub scout and how much fun it was. He told his son he would go and see if it sounded like fun.
