

It Could Happen to You

1. Adjective
2. Adjective
3. Noun
4. Location
5. Noun
6. Adjective
7. Adjective
8. Adjective
9. Noun
10. Past Tense Verb
11. Noun
12. Number
13. Noun
14. Noun
15. Number
16. Noun
17. Noun
18. Noun
19. Noun
20. Past Tense Verb
21. Adjective
22. Noun
23. Adjective

24. Present Tense Verb
25. Noun
26. Noun
27. Noun
28. Verb Ending In Ing
29. Noun
30. Noun
31. Noun
32. Noun
33. Plural Noun
34. Verb Ending In Ing
35. Noun
36. Noun
37. Noun
38. Location
39. Noun
40. Adverb
41. Location
42. Location
43. Noun
44. Location
45. Noun
46. Name Of A Person
47. Plural Noun
48. Location

- 49. Plural Noun
- 50. Number
- 51. Noun
- 52. Noun
- 53. Location
- 54. Noun
- 55. Noun
- 56. Location

It Could Happen to You

Policeman Charlie Lang is a _____ _____ and _____ man who loves his _____ and _____ where he lives. His wife Muriel works as a _____ and, unlike Charlie, is _____ and _____ constantly complaining about their situation in life.

Waitress Yvonne Biasi is bankrupt because her _____ Eddie whom she could not yet afford to divorce, emptied their joint checking account and _____ all the _____ without her permission, while also leaving her with a credit card debt of over _____ dollars. Charlie meets Yvonne when she waits on him at the _____ where she works. Since Charlie doesn't have enough _____ to pay the tip, he promises to give her either double the tip or half of his prospective lottery winnings the next day. He wins _____ dollars (in 21 annual payments) in the lottery the next day and keeps his promise, despite the protests of his _____. He and Yvonne become stars almost immediately. Yvonne buys the _____ she was working in. She sets up a _____ with Charlie's name at which people who cannot afford _____ can eat for free. In another development, Charlie becomes a hero for foiling an attempted robbery at a grocery store but gets _____ in the process, forcing him to take leave from the _____ force.

At a gathering on a chartered _____ for the lottery winners and other members of high society, Muriel gets

to know the newly Adjective Jack Gross. She Present tense verb with him and develops a strong liking for him, which is mutual. Meanwhile, Charlie and Yvonne spend a lot of Noun together, on one occasion paying for the train journeys of passengers of the Noun and on another treating the Noun of his neighbourhood to a day out at Yankee Stadium, about which the media report. Muriel gets fed up with Charlie's constant Verb ending in ing and overall simplicity and throws him out of their Noun asking for a Noun. That same evening, Yvonne leaves her Noun after her Noun shows up and threatens to stay until he gets fifty-thousand Plural noun from her. Quite innocently, Charlie and Yvonne run into each other at the Plaza Hotel and, unintentionally, end up Verb ending in ing the night together.

During divorce proceedings between Muriel and Charlie, Muriel demands all the Noun that Charlie won for herself. Charlie doesn't mind giving his share of the Noun but Muriel also wants the Noun he gave Yvonne, and Charlie's steadfast unwillingness to do so causes Muriel to take the case to Location. The Noun decides in her favor. Yvonne, feeling Adverb at costing Charlie all his money, runs out of Location in tears and tries to keep away from him. But the cop, by now hopelessly in love with the waitress, finds her at the Location and tells her that the Noun means nothing to him, and they declare their love for each other. While ruminating about their future at the diner and considering a possible move to _____^{Location} they are gracious enough to provide a hungry and poor customer some _____^{Noun} which he eats at the special table. The poor customer is none other than the disguised _____^{Name of a person} who takes _____^{Plural noun} of the couple and in the next day's newspapers publicly eulogises their willingness to feed a hungry and poor man even in their darkest hour. Just as Charlie and Yvonne are moving out of town, the citizens of _____^{Location} no doubt touched by the generosity of the couple, send "the cop and the waitress"; thousands of _____^{Plural noun} with tips totaling over _____^{Number} dollars, enough to help pay their debts.

After Muriel gets remarried, her new _____^{Noun} Jack Gross flees the country with all the _____^{Noun} from their checking account, revealing himself to be a con man. She then has no option but to move in with her mother in the _____^{Location} and go back to her old manicure job. Eddie Biasi, now divorced from Yvonne, ends up becoming a _____^{Noun}. Charlie happily returns to the police force and Yvonne reclaims the _____^{Noun}. At the film's end, Charlie and Yvonne get married and begin their honeymoon by taking off from _____^{Location} in a hot air balloon that bears the New York Post headline "Cop Weds Waitress", just before the closing credits roll.

.

