The Plump Boy

Once, there was a Adjective boy named Proper Noun. He had Adjective hair and Adjective eyes. He lived in a Noun tower and had a Adjective mother. She was his Noun though. His Adjective mother had died, Verb - Present Tense a three headed Noun. Well his Adjective mother was just like his Adjective one, but Noun. Too Adjective. She let him have what ever he wanted and Verb - Past Tense all her money on him. Was it just that she Verb - Past Tense him so much or was something Adjective with her?

One day, the boy was along with his mother to the Determiner so he could get what he wanted. He was turning very Adjective, because he was only eating Noun - Plural. His mother Verb - Past Tense him do this and he was Adjective with what he got. Well, that day, he was almost Number pounds and could Adverb walk. Was his mother trying to Verb him or something? The truth was, she was. Peter's Adjective mother was kind of like the Adjective mother's Noun. The new mother was trying to make Peter so Noun that he couldn't Verb and then Verb him. That was here plan. Well, that day she was going to try to do that to him. He found out. The boy came over to his mom and said, Verb down. So she did. He Verb - Past Tense on her Noun and Verb - Past Tense her to Noun.
