The Unicorn and His Horn

Once upon a time, in a magical land there lived a _____Adjective_____young unicorn. His name was Fredrick. He was very, very proud of his horn. He had just started to grow it, and it came out all curly in a _____Shape_____ shape. He rode around town on a _____Adjective_____carpet that he rented from _____Disney character_____. The carpet was covered with pink and purple bumble bees. He was known for his horn, and every other unicorn was jealous of it. All of their horns were strait and _____Color_____. BORING!!!!

One day he was riding on his carpet, and a giant, (the giant from Jack and The Bean Stock) came up out of nowhere and grabbed his horn right off of his head! He only caught a glimpse of the big, ugly, mean monster of a giant. The giant whose name was _____First name_____ was huge, fat, green, and warty. The giant turned to run away, but since Fredrick's carpet was magic, he pressed a secret button that wasn't so secret because it was in the _____Open_____. That button shot ropes out from the bottom of the carpet. The ropes tangled up the giant, and sent him sprawling on the rough concrete. Then the unicorn put a little sleeping pill in _____Same first name_____mouth, and _____Same first name_____fell asleep. Fredrick stole the horn off of _____Same first name_____head, and put it back on his own. When Fredrick turned around he saw that a huge _____Noun_____had formed, and when they saw that he had gotten his horn back, they all _____Past tense verb_____up and cheered. They all lived happily ever after (until _____Same first name_____returned).
