More stories at WordBlanks.com

The Weirdo 191-221 by Samantha

1. Noun _____
2. Preposition _____
3. Pronoun _____
4. Adjective _____
5. Conjunction _____
6. Interjection _____
7. Verb - Base Form _____
8. Adverb _____

The Weirdo 191-221 by Samantha

You should be glad if you stood up for something you believe in, even if it has its consequences. Sam finally let all of the _____Noun_____ shes kept locked _____Preposition_____ go when she stood up for both Chip and Henry in front of her father- both things the bosun dislikes greatly. The defiance against her father first appeared when Sam called Chip to free Henry from the bosuns trap. _____Pronoun_____ was acting against her fathers wishes for probably one of the first times in her life. Then, when Sams father asked her about who was visiting, she did not hesitate to answer. When Bosun Sanders started arguing with her, Sam argued back and then began pleading with her father to let Henry live. Stu ignored her and went back to the house to grab his .38 revolver. The second Sam saw her fathers back turn toward the house, she sprinted towards Chip to warn him. Chip, as _____Adjective_____ as ever, refused to leave without Henry in the back of his jeep. When Bosun Sanders showed up under the picked apple tree to shoot Henry and threaten Chip, Sam made a courageous move. She stepped next to Chip _____Conjunction_____ stood up to her father. _____Interjection_____! She said if her father was going to shoot Henry he would have to shoot her too. Stu Sanders _____Verb - Base Form_____ _____Adverb_____. In the end, standing up for what you believe in could have some consequences, but you should believe it was worth it.

©2026 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.