The Weirdo - Astrid

There are times _____Preposition_____ life when you need to stand up for yourself and your beliefs, but sometimes it could end in a _____Adjective_____ consequence. Chip went to the gathering of hunters in the Community Center even though Sam begged him over and over again not to go. His house was shot at and his cars tires slashed, so he knew the danger of going. _____Pronoun_____ did go because its not part of his character to give up. Chip stood up in front of all of the people who loathe him for _____Verb - Base Form_____ the part that wants to extend the moratorium, and he did it without being self-conscious about the way he looked with his burns and scars. He spoke what he thought was right, and he confidently declared he thought what the hunters were supporting was absolutely wrong. He spoke until he had made his point, and he did it with as much poise and pride as the Bosun. Chip was there to change peoples minds and never doubted himself or his cause. Even Sam, the girl who was afraid of her father, stood up for Chip and the bears, _____Conjunction_____ she still knew how disappointed the Bosun would be in her. It didnt happen _____Adverb_____, but a decision was finally made. Whether it was Chip or the actual bear count that made the bear hunting _____Noun_____ be extended, we wont know, but to Chip and Sam it only matters it was extended. _____Interjection_____! You never know what standing up for yourself can result in. It may seem frightening to stand up for yourself, knowing the possible threat, but most of the time everything works out in your favor and helps you gain self-confidence.
