Tangerine 60-87 NR

Sinking, sloshing, churning mud devouring everything in sight was the scene of Lake Windsor Middle School. A sink hole, about 50 yards across, opened up below the _____ Noun of the wimpy 6th grade portables. The hole demolished 25 portables in its terrible rage, _____ Conjunction injured a few kids. _____ First Name of a Person was the first to see this because he had just gotten out of the office with Mrs. Gates. The sink hole appeared because of all the poring rain that was falling in unfortunate Tangerine County. A large chamber had formed _____ Adverb underneath portable 19, and then the chamber collapsed. The collapse had taken out everything above it. Paul immediately started to _____ Verb - Base Form people out of the sink hole, and as a result _____ Pronoun felt like a hero. _____ Interjection! That was the sound of the sinkhole opening up, and Paul compared it to a giant bathtub drain. It must have been very frightening to see bucket loads of mud coming straight at you, and then having the mud destroy everything around you. I wouldn't want to be in that _____ Adjective bathtub!
