FISHING LEARNIN'

As a youth I was a good spear fisherman in	the Pacific	body of water	in Southern	state	I never tried pole fishing until I was in my early	decade	at dental school	. Two of my class	mates love	d trout so several times a year we w	vould go camp	ing in the Sierra	as' and fish the mo	ountain lake	es. After graduating we all went to another state	and by floa	t vehicle	_ fished the lakes	and rivers	in the southwestern region for ten days. Great trip	o, but as in the	Sierras', for mo	e there were very	fewan	imal while my buddies limited out consistently.	I would gear u	ip exactly like t	hem, stand right n	ext to them	, copy their casting and reeling techniques, and catch o	neanimal	for every to	en they caught. Th	ne sport guides told me I probably had an electro	Adjective	_ aura that trave	eled down the line	and	rerb the away from my lure or bait.	I was doomed	l to forever not	catchanimal	except	with a sharp object
In 1998 Bill and Barbara invited my ex and	d I to Big Lake	. I was happy to	o go just to camp s	since I was	unable to

When we got to Big Lake my ex wanted to	tryverb - 1	Present ends in ING	, so Barbara tol	d us exactly	y what to up the gear, how the boat driver should perform, trolling technique, shore contours, and how to and reel in the and finally how to net the without losing it. We followed her tutelage and we all limited out before noon.

The next day we went out by ourselves in a rental and repeated the Learnin and the results of the previous day. My aura had We never tried shore, but the Burkes' and Sevys' always did very well at it.
After a couple of years my ex only wanted to hook and reel in the I was expected to do everything else. She didn't like to fish either. She also didn't like the fish smell on her body part , even though she wore article of clothing , so we stopped fishing after that.
Two years ago my new lady friend came with me to Big Lake and was curious about The Burke and Sevys' were only too happy to teach her how to from the shore. Following her first catch she was hooked and I played hell trying to get her off the lake. Rain or thunderstorms wouldn't budge her. She ende up not only verb - Present ends in ING all of the fish she caught, but she bummed fishing over limits from the rest of us to bring home to enjoy eating later.

So thanks to Big Lake and the BLOB, my linesport	_ aura has vanished and the	animal	taste great.
