

Cantaloupe

1. Verb - Present Ends In Ing
-

Cantaloupe

Once upon a time a company called Cantaloupe was ready to expand into the city of PLACE.

It was a city that had a lot of promise and could elevate Cantaloupe in their goal of ruling the video storytelling space.

FEMALENAME was looking fresh out of COLLEGE and looking for a job. She was a very ADJECTIVE person. She looked a bit like ACTRESS and was very proud of her very huge BODYPART.

When she had first heard of Cantaloupe she couldn't wait to reach out to Jon to learn more about the company.

Their first meeting went well.

Jon got on a plane to finally meet this potential new Director of Operations. She was very EMOTION. 'Hello NAME, my name is Jon DiGregory,' he said, 'but my employees call me NICKNAME'.

NAME thought Jon was very handsome and wondered if he was single. She could almost forgive the slight smell of FOOD on his breath. "Very pleased to meet you", NAME responded. "I can't wait to start working for you. ".

NUMBER weeks later NAME flew out to indianapolis for training. This was important since things like process, quality and teamwork important at Cantaloupe.

Becoming familiar with these things was necessary. But most of all she was EMOTION to meet the crew. Each employee was different in their own way.

Chip was very ADJECTIVE and had a supportive attitude.

Trena was friendly as well. Maybe too friendly...she reached out and firmly grabbed NAME 's BODYPART and said "I look forward to working with you"

Hollyn was tucked away in the corner reading some marketing materials Jon provided her.

Vicki was currently bickering with Chris over his recent Verb - Present ends in ING from playing SPORT.

Christian and Kurt were ADVERB playing a game of Badmindton. A hit Christian in the face and proceeded to yell "CURSEWORD" as he added another loss under his belt.

Lain was sitting at her desk editing a video for CLIENT but couldn't seem to remember how to spell their name.

Cubby was in his office blaring MUSICALARTIST from his laptop. NAME was a bit surprised to find his voice sounded very much like FEMALE SINGER.

Zach introduced himself and proceeded to tell a tale of how he had broken his cellphone. He has gone through NUMBER iPhones so far.

Lastly

JD was sitting at his desk picking at his plate of gluten free FOOD.

Along with Name 's employee handbook, she ADVERB learned about how and where to network, what to look for in a freelance videographer and most importantly, was taught their golden circle...

After NAME 's time at cantaloupe she felt ready to expand into a new city. It was a new era for the company and every one lived happily ever after.

The end.