Tokka Tuomela

Tokka Tuomela was on the run again. Always have and always will be, I guess, Tokka thought to herself as she darted around a Noun.

This time a boy was chasing Tokka. He was older and quite a bit taller than her.

He also looked pretty Adjective in Tokka's opinion. Tokka stopped for a moment to wipe a mixture of Noun and sweat off her forehead. Then she began running again.

This is the city! Tokka thought, How hard could it be to lose just one dopey guy?

The reason Tokka was running all led back to a trade Tokka had made.

A wise investment, she had thought. Less than a week ago she had needed a Noun. After all, she was always traveling having no home or family.

She had found a kid sitting on the corner and paid him $50 bucks for his Noun Noun.

Apparently, he had decided he wanted it back. You might be wondering why Tokka wasn't on the Noun now.

Well, that is because she only used it for major traveling and she didn't consider scavenging the town looking for Noun and Noun major traveling.
