

The little girl who lost her way

1. Adjective

The little girl who lost her way

There once was a little girl her name was Marisa. She loved to have people over for sleepovers and her favorite thing in the whole world was lollipops. But then one day the little Marisa was playing in the woods and wanted to go back home and wanted to have some lunch, but then she lost her way and couldn't get back home. At the middle of the night she finally found her way, but when she got back home her parents _____ Adjective _____.

TO BE CONTINUED.....