

The Bullfighter

1. Noun
2. Adjective
3. Name
4. Adjective
5. Noun
6. Proper Noun
7. Name
8. Noun
9. Noun
10. Determiner
11. Determiner
12. Name

The Bullfighter

Once upon a Noun, far far away in the country of Spain, there was a Adjective soon to be bullfighter. He was known by the name of Senor Name and he lived in a Adjective Noun hut with his Great Proper Noun, Name. They were a poor family but he dreamed of being able to support them with his Noun milking skills. The truth was that no one wanted his work so he was soon left jobless.

Noun Determiner Determiner, the sad sap decided to travel around into nearby towns.

Having to urinate rather badly he walked into a nearby coffee shop. Jim, the store owner was questionable because of his appearance. Charles was wearing overalls and flip-flops with a great big cape. The store owner then asked what Charles' occupation was and he replied "I worked with cows".

With great enthusiasm Name offered that Charles travel to Pamplona the upcoming week and take part in the festivities. His partner easdropping into the situation commented "I know a man who would be happy to have a hand with the bulls".