how to _____ Start with a _____ Noun, preferably a padded one. Make sure you have plenty of open space all around you, and a padded _____ Noun underneath you. Stand about four to five feet away, facing the wall. Lift your _____ Noun - Plural straight up over your _____ Noun. Lunge forward and place both _____ Noun - Plural in front of you on the floor, shoulder-width apart, about a foot away from the wall. Keep your fingers spread out slightly and facing forward. Using the momentum from your _____ Noun, _____ Noun one leg up toward the wall, and then follow it with your other leg. Keep your _____ Noun - Plural straight. It doesn't matter which leg you lead with -- you should do what feels most comfortable. If you aren't able to get all the way up into a _____ Noun it can help to have a spotter who pulls your legs up. Once you get into a _____ Noun, check your form and positioning. Try to be as _____ Adverb as possible:

Keep your _____ body part straight and together, with your _____ body part pointed towards the ceiling

Tighten your _____ body part and back so you aren't arching your back or bending in the hips.

Peek at your _____ body part, but don't stick your _____ body part out.

Push down through your palms so your _____ body part and _____ body part are fully extended, _____ body part always locked out.

Once you can _____ Verb - Base Form up to a straight _____ Noun, practice holding it for a few seconds longer each time. This will help you strengthen the muscles you'll need to hold it without a _____ Noun, and improve your balance as well. When you feel ready, attempt your _____ Noun without using the wall. You may want to have a spotter to help you _____. The _____ should hold your _____ once you kick up.

In your first attempts, you might be a little nervous that you will kick too hard and go right over the top. A _____ should be able to prevent this from happening, but you will want to learn some good ways to come out of your _____ when you don't have a _____:

_____ out: Bend your _____, tuck your _____ under (_____ to your _____), and do a forward roll out of your _____.

_____: Twist your _____ and walk one hand around. Your body will make a quarter turn, and you will be able to step down without going over the top. Though this method seems more complicated, most _____ prefer it once they learn it.

When you are successfully doing a _____ on your own, have someone take a look at your body position. Is your body straight like a _____? The tighter you are, the easier it will be for you to hold a _____.
