Tough Mudder

Every weekend, including [sunday holiday HOLIDAY], thousands of people gather in cities across the country to compete in the Tough Mudder, Probably the [adjective ending in est ENDING IN -EST] Event on the Planet. Benefiting the Wounded Warrior Project (with $ 3 million raised so far, the course consists of [Number] miles and 25 military style obstacles- all that stand between the neon [color] headband that separates the [PLURAL Noun - Plural] from the boys.

Scraped [PLURAL Part of Body PART] and sprained [PLURAL Part of Body PART] are just par for the course as participants swim through dumpsters of ice cold water, run through fire, [VERB- Verb - Base Form FORM] through mud, scale 12 foot walls, and get electrocuted with 10, 000 volts of electricity. Especially on team Honey [Animal], camaraderie and teamwork always come before course time, and Tough Mudders never whine- kids whine.

Crossing the finish line, all fears overcome, it is hard not to join in the chant. WE ARE TOUGH MUDDERS!
HOO RAH!
