The Five Senses

Oh, I've got _____ senses

_____ me the way.

I've got those five senses

Helping me each day.

Put your hands together. Can you feel the touch?

Oh, that skin love to feel so much.

With all those nerves running down your spine,

You're always feeling fine.

Now, open your eyes so big and wide

Like two big cameras sitting on both sides.

And everything you see is upside down,

But your brain turns it around.

Oh, I've got five senses

Showing me the way.

I've got those five senses

Helping me each day.

Now stick out your tongue, it might be fun.

Oh, my, it's full of bumps!

When

I put something right in my mouth,

It makes my taste buds jump!

Now take a sniff, a little whiff

Uh, oh, I think I'm sunk,

'Cause sitting right there underneath my chair

Is a big old smelly skunk!

Oh, I've got five senses

Showing me the way.

I've got those five senses

Helping me each day.

Now open your ears, let's really hear.

Where does that sound come from?

Bouncing around and vibrating

In the middle of your ear drum!

Oh, I've got five senses

Showing me the way.

I've got those five senses

Helping me each day.
