

pokemon

1. Adjective
-

pokemon

One Adjective

went out with to catch some Pokemon. They decided that on a day like this, the Grass Pokemon were sure to be out in Forest. They got their Pokeballs and set off. They really wanted a to complete their collection. They were very when they heard the call of the Pokemon they really wanted. But to their surprise, a giant foot tall

came bursting through the foliage! It eyed them and snorted. They were scared with fright. All of the sudden made a run for it. The big Pokemon left behind and went chasing after you! You heard trees snapping and the earth shaking as the big Pokemon pounced towards you. You figure you can stall it just long enough to

if you put it in your last Pokeball. You know it's so powerful it will escape but it might buy you some time. So to save your you throw your last Pokeball at it.

seconds later you hear it burst open and the big Pokemon is on your trail again. You see a stream ahead. You figure you're about feet ahead and if you jump in the river you can throw it off your

. You see it coming towards the river and you go under the calm water. You wait as long as you can without air and peek up to see the Pokemon gone. But then you remember your friend! You hear scream. You send out your most powerful Pokemon with you which happens to be your trustworthy

. You come back to the site where you see your friend up against a tree as the big Pokemon growls and shows its teeth. Your attacks using and the big Monster faints. You escape and get back to your town of where you try to tell everyone of the giant Pokemon who chased you but no one believes you. "

", you say. Oh well there's always next time!