Life on the Farm

Everyday is the same things, _____ Preposition or subordinating conjunction the horses to the hens. I start my day off by doing _____ Adjective chores at 6 am, I feed them Friskies cat food. Then I make my way to the hens, I first get the eggs, and then feed them corn, and water them. I feed the horses one bale of hay, then also water them. My _____ Adjective Kristine feeds the bottle baby calf, she feeds her with a calf bottle.

At 5 pm Kristine and I go _____ Adjective out to the farm and repeat the chores. All the animals get fed twice a day. We do not live at the _____ Adjective, the farm is my grandparents, Connie and Mike Collins. When they are not home we do all the farm chores. When _____ Adjective not home we feed Maggie and Tinker, they are the farm in house dogs. Also water the flowers in and outside. _____ Adjective Mike let me mow the yard once, but i don't think he don't want me to get hurt.
