My first class that I decided to observe was one that I was very hesitant to enter. I was going to observe the same _____ Noun I had when I was in third grade! Although I was well aware of the teacher ,when I entered I was very curious to see how the children would behave. I specifically remembered to take note as to how the class was being run and how the children would be grouped; if at all. Being that this was an inclusion class, I wanted to specially focus on those students to see what kind of disabilities they had.
