Olivia

This is Olivia. She is good at lots of things. She is very good at wearing people out. She even wears herself out.

Olivia has a little           Noun           named Ian. He's always           Verb - Present Tense          . Sometimes Ian just won't leave her alone, so Olivia has to be           Noun          . Olivia lives with her mother, her father, her brother, her           Noun           Perry and Edwin, the cat. In the morning, after she gets up, and           Verb - 3rd Person Singular Present           the cat, and brushes her           Noun - Plural          , and combs her ears, and moves the cat, Olivia gets dressed. She has to try on everything. On           Adjective           days, Olivia likes to go to the           Noun          . She feels it's important to come prepared. Last summer when Olivia was little, her mother showed her how to make sand           Noun - Plural          . She got pretty good. Sometimes Olivia likes to bask in the sun. When her mother sees that she's had enough, they go home. Every day Olivia is supposed to take a           Noun          . "It's time for your you-know-what," her mother says. Of course Olivia's not at all sleepy. On           Noun           days, Olivia likes to go to the           Noun          . She heads straight for her favorite picture. Olivia looks at it for a long time. What could she be thinking? But there is one painting Olivia just doesn't get. "I could do that in about five minutes," she says to her mother. As soon as she gets home she gives it a try. Time out. After a nice           Noun          , and a nice dinner, it's time for bed. But of course olivia's not at all           Adjective          . "Only five books tonight, Mommy," she says. "No, Olivia, Just one." "how about four?" "Two." "Three." "oh, all right, three. But that's it!" When they've finished reading, Olivia's mother gives her a           Noun           and says, "You know, you really wear me out. But I love you anyway." And Olivia gives her a           Noun           back and says, "I love you anyway too."
