Hawk's Hill madlib Chris Laack

Today was the most miraculous day of my life. It all began when I woke up with Pa _____ the crack of dawn. Mother made an _____ breakfast because we often spend the whole day searching with no breaks for food. Dad _____ I immediately set off to continue our search for Ben. Pa went directly south while I slowly angled south-west. We planned to meet at around noon near where I was searching. I set off with low hopes since _____ had been missing for over two months. Ma and Pa still would not accept that Ben was gone forever, and _____ I was out of hope. I started to examine the area with no success. Then, disguised in a patch of moss, I found Ben's right shoe. I immediately anchored it to the ground and set off to find the other shoe with my hopes rising. About 60 meters away I found his opposite shoe. As I _____ toward it I saw a flash of something in my peripheral vision. I sat there for 30 minutes waiting for something to move. Just as I was about to leave Ben crawled out on all fours hissing and scratching at me. I jumped off my horse and walked toward him. He bit me in the hand with no mercy. _____ I screamed as I started dragging the dead weight behind me. Then, I heard a fierce growl not like one Ben would make. I turned around as a chill went down my spine. Standing there was an adult female badger. I got Ben onto my horse, and we galloped away from the dreadful creature. When I returned home a sigh of relief came from Ma, Beth, and Coral. Ben still refused to acknowledge our love. Finally he realized we would not harm him, and he hugged me. Later in the day the badger found our home, and we adopted her as our pet. Ben is still telling us more about his journey, and he prefers to sleep on the floor with the badger. _____ are all hoping that Ben will fully recover from this adventure.
