Joe and Shannah Meet

I worked in the office supplies department and Shannah was a _____Noun_____. I first _____Verb - Past Tense_____ to Shannah a couple days before the Fourth of July of 2006. But before I could mustard up _____Noun_____ to talk to Shannah, I had to ask my coworkers who she was because I was _____Verb - Past Tense_____ by how _____Adjective_____ she looked _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ up there as a _____Noun_____. It took a couple of _____Noun_____ before I could even ask her how she said her name. I think I may have even said "why can't your name be easier to say." I was so overtaken by Shannah and how _____Adjective_____ she was to all the _____Noun_____ who came into Staples. I remember like it was yesterday that I would walk up and down the office supplies isles trying to say Shannah's name and telling my coworker in the department how sweet and cute she was. He told me I should just ask her out, but I was so _____Adjective_____ at that time in my life when it came to _____Noun_____. It was late in July and I remember I needed a day off from work, so my boss game me _____Noun_____ _____Noun_____ of coworkers who could fill in for me at _____Noun_____. He gave me two girls' _____Noun_____ and a guy's _____Noun_____. Well, one of them happened to be Shannah's _____Noun_____ _____Noun_____. So, like a _____Adjective_____, I called her and asked her very _____Adverb_____ if she could _____Noun_____ for me. I think Shannah _____Verb - Past Tense_____ and said, "do you really need me to?", I of course said, "yes." But because she was so _____Adjective_____ on the _____Noun_____ I remember thanking her and _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ up. I then _____Verb - Past Tense_____ around my apartment and realized I didn't have anything to do that evening, so I go the _____Noun_____ to call her back and asked if she had plans for that night and she said, "_____Noun_____", so then I asked if she would like to hang out and she said, "sure." I remember we went _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ and back to her parents house and watched a movie. Then I asked if I could _____Verb - Base Form_____ her again tomorrow and she said, "I am _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ for you, don't you remember". Well we _____Verb - Base Form_____ _____Verb - Base Form_____ off and on for about two weeks before I finally got the nerve to ask her out. I had her go on a _____Adjective_____ scavenger hunt to find me. It was August 11 one day after my 21 birthday. It was 1:58 pm when I asked if she would _____Verb - Base Form_____ me. I remember using that word _____Verb - Base Form_____ because I was at point in my life where I wanted to eventually get _____Event_____. Needless to say, I don't think Shannah was at the same point. We hung out all the time and did so many _____Noun - Plural_____ together. Shannah would tell me that in _____Number_____ years I could marry her if we are still together and I would tell her that she would want to marry me before that.
