Lincoln's log

Four Noun and seven Noun - Plural ago our Noun - Plural Verb - Past Tense forth on this continent a new Noun, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all Noun - Plural are Verb - Past Tense Adjective.

Now we are engaged in a Adjective civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation, so Adjective and so Adjective, can long endure. We are Verb - Past Tense on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a Adjective resting place for those who Adjective gave their lives that that nation might Verb - Base Form. It is altogether Adjective and Adjective that we should do this.

But, in a Adjective sense, we can not dedicate, we can not consecrate, we can not Verb - Base Form this ground. The brave men, Adjective and dead, who Verb - Base Form here, have Verb - Base Form it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we Verb - Base Form here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the Verb - Present ends in S, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so Adverb Verb - Past Tense. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us--that from these Adjective Noun - Plural we take Noun - Plural devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion--that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have Verb - Past Tense in vain--that this Noun, under God, shall have a new birth of Noun that government of the Noun , by the Noun , for the Noun , shall not Verb - Base Form from the Noun .
