The Haunted House

It was a _____ Adjective and sweltering night. My sister and I were bored and started to walk around the _____ Adjective neighborhood lackadaisically. We saw a _____ Adjective house down the road that looked haunted. No one had lived in that bizarre looking house for generations. We decided to go into the creepy house. We walked gingerly past the gruesome _____ Noun - Plural. We had an inkling that a despicable person had lived in the house. My older sister was tremulous because of the old statues. My sister was so scared that she _____ Verb - Past Tense over a floor board that had been broken and she got an abrasion. I saw the grimace on her face. I knew that something was amiss. There was a giant sculpture of a _____ Noun with shackles _____ Verb - Present Tense off of it. The sculpture took off on a barking tirade!

We took off running, but the house was so big that time elapsed _____ Adverb and we got lost. Then we had to modify our plan to get out. I abhorred my sister for making me go in the house but I didn't want to be brusque with her. I grabbed her _____ Noun and pivoted around and finally managed to find the _____ Noun. We ran home and never went near that house again.
