Max's Library Adventure

Max the Animal lived on the Number floor of the public library, right behind the librarian's Noun. During the day he had to be extra careful not to be seen. This was especially hard for Max because he liked to see the little Noun - Plural and Noun - Plural as they checked out their Noun - Plural. Sometimes, the kids would drop cookie crumbs or animal crackers on the Noun. If Max was Adjective enough, he could Verb - Base Form the Noun before the janitor came at night.

One night, Max was Verb - Present ends in ING for Noun - Plural when he heard the familiar sound of a vacuum cleaner near by. Suddenly he heard a scream! The cleaning lady had seen him and was Verb - Present ends in ING Max with her vacuum cleaner. Max Verb - Past Tense back and forth, trying to outrun the vacuum, but felt it get closer and closer. Just as it was about to suck him up, it died. The vacuum had reached the end of its chord and turned off.

Back safe in his Noun, Max gasped for Noun. It had been a night of Adjective, but he was Adjective to be home - and alive.
