CHWC - St. Louis Mission Trip

We began our journey by _____ Verb - Present ends in ING ourselves to wake up before 5am to get prepared for our five day mission trip in St. Louis. We had three drivers to drive all of us students to St. Louis. In St. Louis, we got to volunteer to help the helpless in Missouri. When we got there, everyone was amazed at the _____ Adjective looking Christian school that looked like a _____ Adjective version of the Hogwarts castle. It took us awhile to get all of our luggage out and into the _____ Adjective room on the third floor, but we did and we couldn't wait to meet other people there. Soon, after the beginning program, Jocelyn and I met two _____ Adverb girls who were sleeping right next to us, and they were very nice to us considering that we had never met before.

The next day, we got in groups of five to seven people varying from different states and went to our worksites. I _____ Adverb got to work with five other students and an adult who was our leader. Our worksite was a lady who was over one hundred years old and was still very mobile for people like her. _____ Interjection! She was very kind and generous, as she let us eat our lunch with her and exchange stories with her. When we weren't having our lunch break, we were working on lots of things around her house, like wash her front and back porch, fix the fence, paint chairs and her bird bath, clean out gutters, and many other things to make her house look as beautiful as it can be.

On the last workday, I decided to bring some Jolly Ranchers. One of the student decided to _____ Verb - Base _____ Form down _____ Adverb hard on the candy, but his mouth seemed to be practically glued to the candy, and when he talked, it was really hard to understand him. So naturally, the rest of us wanted to join in on it and when someone said something funny, we had to hold back our laughter because it literally hurt to Verb - Base

Form. When we were done at our work site, we went to the St. Louis swimming pool and took showers there.

The bumner was that we didn't actually get to go into the pool part. When we got back from the showers, everyone went back to their rooms and had a choice of sleeping, texting, and loads of other things while you waited for everyone else to get back to the school. Proper Noun and and I made a group of us two, and two other Noun - Plural who were Proper Noun and Proper Noun. After all of us four were done at our hard-working Proper Noun, we all flew downstairs to the main floor to talk and munch on rewarding snacks.
