Fun Times at Wal-Mart

Once upon a time, Sadie, Mckenzie, and I were riding to Wal-Mart to get our Halloween costumes. When we arrived we ran around in search of green leggings and a green shirt, since unfortunately there was a vacancy of teenage mutant ninja Animal costumes/shirts. Since Sadie's mom had to do some shopping we Verb - Past Tense around like Animal-Plural with their heads cut off. We Verb - Past Tense into the toy aisle and we found what had to be one of the Adjective - Ends in EST creations of all time; One Direction dolls!

"Interjection, I have a great idea, scoop all of the dolls into my arms and I will somehow dump them into the cart and we can see your mom's expression." So they dumped them into my arms and I walked Adverb to the cart and Adverb for me she wasn't looking so I Verb - Past Tense them in the cart. When she turned around she saw the Adjective Noun - Plural of dolls and looked Adjective- Ends in ED. Then she told us to go put them back. First we had to take pictures, then we gathered them up and my friends led me Adverb through the store again. I then just dumped the dolls on the shelf and walked back to the cart.
