Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving is on Thursday this year. John and Mike are coming to my house. Carlos made honor roll in terms 1 and 2 of his 7th grade year. Term 3 was much more difficult and he received a C+ in Science. His parents and teachers were so proud of him for not getting any failing grades, and they were especially proud because he worked very hard and tried his best. Carlos, however, was not happy. "SCHOOL STINKS! I HATE MY SCIENCE TEACHER! I'M NEVER DOING MY _____ Noun EVER AGAIN! I'M A LOSER!" Carlos has a very hard time accepting the fact that he didn't make the honor roll. During the school assembly, he cried when his classmates received awards and he did not. "It's not a competition," said one of his friends. "You still got good grades and tried your best." Other _____ Noun - Plural and teachers at the assembly had red thoughts about him though. (Crying when things don't go your way is unexpected behavior for middle school students.)
