Merry McRib-mas

_____ of the popular McDonald's McRib can _____ up on their favorite seasonal _____ in time for Christmas. According to a memo obtained by Advertising Age, McDonald's plans to bring back the McRib starting at the second half of December. McDonald's planned to unveil the _____ in mid October but the date was pushed back in an effort to boost year-end sales.

The McRib is a 500-calorie _____ sandwich with _____ sauce, pickles and _____. It hasn't been available in the United States since last October. In March, _____ in Austria unveiled the McRibster, a jazzed-up version of the original.

Two new menu items will be unveiled this fall: a cheddar bacon onion angus _____ and a _____ sandwich. _____ McBites are scheduled to appear on the menu in February, after the McRib is taken off.

A representative from McDonald's could not be reached for comment.
