Red Riding Hood

Once upon a time there was a _____Adjective_____ little _____Noun_____ who was loved by everyone who looked at her, but most of all by her grandmother, and there was nothing that she would not have given to the _____Noun_____. Once she _____Verb_____ her a little riding _____Noun_____ of red velvet, which suited her so well that she would never wear anything else; so she was always called 'Little _____Adjective_____ Riding Hood.'

One _____Noun_____ _____Pronoun_____ mother said to her: 'Come, Little _____Adjective_____ Riding Hood, here is a piece of cake and a bottle of wine; take them to your grandmother, she is ill and weak, and they will do her good. Set out before it gets _____Adjective_____, and when you are going, walk nicely and quietly and do not run off the path, or you may fall and break the bottle, and then your grandmother will get nothing; and when you go into her room, don't forget to say, "Good morning", _____Conjunction_____ don't _____Verb_____ into every corner before you do it.'

'I will take great care,' said Little _____Adjective_____ Riding _____Noun_____ to her _____Noun_____, and gave her hand on it.

The grandmother lived out in the wood, half a league from the village, and just as Little Red Riding Hood entered the wood, a wolf met her. _____Adjective_____ Riding Hood did not know what a wicked creature he was, and was not at all afraid of him.

'Good _____Noun_____, Little _____Adjective_____ Riding Hood,' said he.

'Thank you kindly, _____Noun_____.'

'Whither away so early, Little Red Riding _____Noun_____?'

'To

my grandmother's.'

'What have you got in your apron?'

'Cake and wine; yesterday was baking-day, so poor sick grandmother is to have something good, to make her stronger.'

'Where does your _____Noun_____ live, Little Red Riding Hood?'

'A good quarter of a league farther on in the wood; her house stands under the three _____Adjective_____ oak-trees, the nut-trees are just below; you _____Adverb_____ must know it,' replied Little _____Adjective_____ Riding Hood.

The wolf thought to himself: 'What a tender young creature! what a nice plump mouthful - she will be better to eat than the old woman. I must act _____Adverb_____, so as to catch both.'

So he walked for a short time by the side of Little Red Riding Hood, and then he said: 'See, Little Red Riding Hood, how pretty the flowers are about here - why do you not look round? I _____Verb_____, too, that you do not hear how _____Adverb_____ the little birds are _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____; you walk gravely along as if you were going to school, while everything else out here _____Preposition_____ the wood is merry.'

Little Red Riding Hood raised her eyes, and when she saw the sunbeams dancing here and there through the trees, and pretty flowers _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ everywhere, she thought: 'Suppose I take grandmother a fresh nosegay; that would please her too. It is so early in the day that I shall still get there _____Preposition_____ good _____Noun_____.'

So she ran from the path into the wood to look for flowers. And whenever she had picked one, she fancied that she saw a still prettier one farther on, and ran after _____Pronoun_____, and so got deeper and deeper into the wood.

Meanwhile the wolf ran straight to the grandmother's house and _____Verb - Past Tense_____ _____Preposition_____ the door.

'Who is there?'

'Little Red Riding Hood,' replied the wolf. 'She is bringing cake and wine; open the door.'

_____Verb_____ the latch,' _____Verb_____ out the grandmother, 'I am too weak, and cannot get up.'

The wolf lifted the latch, the door sprang open, and without saying a word he went straight to the grandmother's bed, and devoured her. Then he put on her clothes, dressed himself in her cap, _____Verb_____ himself in bed and drew the curtains.

Little Red Riding Hood, however, had been running about _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ flowers, and when she had gathered so many that she could carry no more, she _____Verb - Past Tense_____ her grandmother, and set out on the way to her.

She was surprised to find the cottage-door _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ open, and when she went into the room, she had such a strange feeling that she said to herself: 'Oh dear! how uneasy I feel today, and at other times I like being with grandmother so much.' She called out: 'Good morning,' but _____Verb - Past Tense_____ no answer; so she went to the bed and drew back the curtains. There lay her grandmother with her cap _____Verb_____ far over her face, and _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ very strange.

_____Interjection_____! grandmother,' she said, 'what big ears you have!'

'All

the better to hear you with, my child,' was the reply.

'But, grandmother, what _____Adjective_____ eyes you have!' she said.

'All the better to see you with, my dear.'

'But, grandmother, what _____Adjective_____ hands you have!'

'All the better to hug you with.'

_____Interjection_____! but, grandmother, what a _____Adjective_____ big mouth you have!'

'All the better to eat you with!'

And scarcely had the wolf said this, than with one bound he was out of bed and swallowed up Red Riding Hood.

When the wolf had appeased his appetite, he lay down again in the bed, fell asleep and began to snore very _____Adjective_____.

The huntsman was just passing the house, and thought to himself: 'How the old woman is _____Verb - Present_____ _____ends in ING_____! I must just see if she wants anything.' So he went into the room, and when he came to the bed, he saw that the wolf was lying in it.

'Do I find you here, you old sinner!' _____Verb - Past Tense_____ _____Pronoun_____. 'I have long sought you!' But just as he was going to fire at him, it occurred to him that the wolf might have devoured the grandmother, and that she might still be _____Verb - Past Tense_____, so he did not fire, but took a pair _____Preposition_____ scissors, and began to cut open the stomach of the sleeping wolf.

When he had made two snips, he saw the little red riding hood shining, and then he made _____Adjective_____ snips more, and the little girl sprang out, _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____: 'Ah, how frightened I have been! How dark it was inside the wolf.'

After that the aged _____Noun_____ came out alive also, but scarcely able to breathe. _____Adjective_____ Riding Hood, however, _____Adverb_____ fetched great _____Noun_____ with which they filled the wolf's belly, and when he awoke, he wanted to run away, but the stones were so heavy that he collapsed at once, and fell dead.

Then all three were delighted. The _____Noun_____ drew off the wolf's skin and went home with it; the grandmother _____Verb_____ the cake and drank the wine which Red Riding _____Noun_____ had brought, and revived. But Red Riding Hood thought to herself: 'As long as I live, I will never leave the _____Noun_____ by myself to run into the wood, when my mother has forbidden me to do so.'

It is also related that once, when Red Riding Hood was again taking cakes to the old grandmother, another wolf _____Verb_____ to her, and tried to _____Verb_____ her from the path. Red Riding Hood, however, was on her guard, and went straight forward on her way, and told her grandmother that she had met the wolf, and that he had said 'good morning' to her, but with such a wicked look in his eyes, that if they had not _____Verb_____ on the public road she was certain he would have _____Verb_____ her up.

_____Interjection_____,' said the grandmother, 'we will shut the door, so that he can not come in.'

Soon afterwards the wolf knocked, and cried: 'Open the door, grandmother, I am Little _____Adjective_____ Riding Hood, and am bringing you some cakes.'

But they did not speak, or open the door, so the grey-beard stole twice or thrice round the house, and at last jumped on the roof, intending to wait until _____Adjective_____ Riding Hood went home in the _____Noun_____, and then to steal after her and devour her in the darkness. But the grandmother saw what was in his thoughts.

In front of the house was a great _____Noun_____ trough, so she said to the _____Noun_____: 'Take the pail, Red Riding Hood; I made some sausages yesterday, so _____Verb_____ the water in which I _____Verb_____ them to the trough.'

_____Adjective_____ Riding Hood carried until the great trough was quite full. Then the smell of the sausages reached the wolf, and he sniffed and peeped down, and at last stretched out his neck so far that he could no longer keep his footing and began to _____Verb_____, and slipped down from the roof straight into the great _____Noun_____, and was _____Verb_____. But Red Riding Hood went joyously _____Noun_____, and no one ever did anything to harm her again.
