Who Stole the Bunny?

| At the Harvard of the Region of the Country, Washington University in St. Louis, humans between | the ages |

| of Number and Number gather to drink from the fount of knowledge. Some of them was | ant to be |
| doctors when they grow up. Markets were down sharply on Friday after Speaker John A. Boehner's tax | plan |
| failed to reach a vote in the House on Thursday evening. No Democrats were prepared to support the b | ill, and |
| Mr. Boehner told reporters that his plan also lacked sufficient votes among Republicans. | |

| Instead, they say, the failure of Mr. Boehner's bill makes a deal to avert the so-called fiscal cliff more li | ikely |
| because it has now become clear that any deal will need to rely upon the support of at least some Demo | ocrats, |
| which could ease passage through the Democratic-controlled Senate. | |
| | |
| Perhaps this is correct. Mr. Boehner has said that the White House and Senator Harry Reid, the majorit | y leader, |
| will now have to take the lead in negotiations. The chance that a fiscal deal will be secured on terms that | at |
| Democrats find favorable may have increased. | |
| | |
| But the chance that there will not be a deal at all may also have increased, or at least not one before pro- | tracted |
| negotiations that could harm the economy. The difficulty is in finding any winning coalition of votes in | ı the |
| House of Representatives. | |
