It was Valentines Day at UVa, and young [your name] had [adj] hopes of taking the [adj] [your date's name] to [insert a pre dinner activity] and then to what promised to be a very [adj] and Adjective Verb - Past Participle dinner in Alumni Hall. So, with a [noun] for [his/her] Noun in Number Noun and a [noun] in the other, [your name] approached [your date's name] while [he/she] was [verb ending in 'ing'] on the lawn. In a [Noun] voice [your name] cried, "[a smooth pick up line to invite date ]." Smitten, [your date's Noun]'s first reaction was to [verb], then [he/she] said just three words [three words]. Triumphant, young master [your Noun] and a lucky [your dates name] had a fancy Valentines Day meal.
