The child that didn't learn

There was a little           Noun           named           Proper Noun           who loved to get into           Noun          . One day while he should have been           Verb - Present Tense           and           Verb - Present Tense           attention to his           Noun          , he was trying to watch his           Noun           play a           Noun          . Until one day when his           Noun           caught him and           Verb - Past Tense           him hard on his           Noun          . Since then,           Proper Noun           has been a           Adjective                     Adjective                     Noun          .
